PLANS FOR THE THANKSGIVING DINNER.

The Ladies Have Extended the Invitation to the Soldier Boys—Arrangements for It are Progressing.

The invitation of the ladies of Honolulu to the soldiers in camp here to partake of a Thanksgiving dinner has been extended.

Progress in the arrangement of details has been made since the meeting at Mrs. Dole's yesterday, though they have not all been completed. Mrs. Dole and Colonel Barber have had a consultation on the subject and hearty co-operation is assured. Colonel Barber will furnish transportation for the materials for the dinner.

Colonel Barber is to consult with his officers as to the details of preparing such parts of the dinner as are to be prepared at the camp, and as to arrangements for serving it. When this is done another meeting of the ladies will be called by Mrs. Dole, at which the work can be thoroughly laid out.

One thing the ladies would like to have born in mind, and that is that the invitation to co-operate is general. It is hoped, too, that as many as possible will make arrangements to go to the camp on Thanksgiving day to assist in serving dinner, and to make it as thoroughly enjoyable an affair as possible. Camp life is monotonous enough at best, especially to men who have left active occupations and good homes to fight battles. The more gala and sprightly it can be made the better. The drive to Waiwae will be a pleasant one and for the purpose in view should be doubly so.

The suggestion has been made that Captain Ashley be put in charge of the hot coffee department of the dinner. His services in this line during the Executive building entertainments to the Manila bound troops proved his efficiency.

It should not be forgotten that funds for the dinner are necessary. The ladies are doing the planning and will do the work. But the community must, and there is no doubt will, support it.

Subscriptions may be made either through The Star or at Benson, Smith & Co's.

THE INDIANA.

The San Francisco Chronicle publishes a story to the effect that when General Merriam learned that the wives of several of the officers of the Kansas regiment had accompanied them on the Indiana he sent orders by the Doric and Ohio for them to be left at Honolulu. Both the Doric and Ohio arrived before the Indiana did, so that if any such orders had been sent they arrived here in plenty of time. But all the officers wives who came on the Indiana sailed to Manila on her, so that it is probable no such orders were sent.

FOREIGN OFFICE TROPHY.

The beautiful trophy put up by the Foreign Office and recently won by Company G at Kakaako butts will be put on exhibition in the windows of the Pacific Hardware Company. The rifle recently won by the same company will also go on exhibition.

TYPEWRITERS!!

In no line of mechanics is excellence of construction of such vital importance as in Typewriters.

The PEERLESS is especially noted for its durability, simplicity and its speed.

Considering first cost only the PEERLESS is not one of the so-called "cheap machines," but looking at it from a business point of view, comparing quantity and quality of work, loss of time from breakdowns on steamer days, when the Typewriter is most needed, and cost of repairs, as well as the life of the Typewriter, the PEERLESS is without an equal and is the cheapest machine on the market.

MORE NEW SCHOOL HOUSES

TWO FOR HAWAII AND THREE FOR MAKAWAO, MAUI.

Schools to be Closed from November 23rd to 29th—Meeting of the Commissioners Yesterday.

At the meeting of the Commissioners of Education yesterday held at 2:30 yesterday afternoon, Minister Cooper reported that John Quincy Wood had been appointed a member of the board to fill one of the vacancies. Mrs. Henry N. Castle had been requested to accept the other vacant chair, but had asked time to consider the matter.

The Minister submitted this list of school houses it is proposed to build at once:

Hawaii—Waikanae, Hilo, one building of two rooms; Paua, Puna, a one room house.

Maui—Keokea, Makawao, two room building; Kaunakulua, two room house; Hamakua, three room house.

It was also recommended that the Beretania street school building be changed from ten to twelve rooms. Adopted.

The Minister submitted a new program for work in the Normal school, prepared by Professor Edgar Wood, principal. After some slight amendments the schedule was adopted.

A son of Mrs. Kinney, language teacher in the High school, was offered the position of principal of the school to be started at Kaapahu, Hamakua.

On motion of Mrs. Jordan, it was decided to close the schools from Wednesday afternoon, November 23rd, to Tuesday, November 29th. This is because the 23rd, Thursday, is Thanksgiving and Monday, the 25th, is Independence day. This would leave only Friday at any rate in between as a working day.

Minister Cooper announced his intention of leaving by the next Kinau for Hilo to look after new school buildings.

There will be no meeting of the board next week.

OPEN THE DOORS.

BRILLIANT NANCE O'NEIL

ENTHUSIASTICALLY RECEIVED BY THEATER GOERS.

Magda Shows the Actress' Power and the Season Promises to be a Thorough Success.

Miss O'Neil won the Honolulu audience last night, and by that I don't mean the elegantly gowned and the swallow-tailed gentlemen of the parquet and dress circle, but she won what I always consider far more, in a theatrical point of view—she won the gallery. In emotional plays, the gallery is the test of the actor or actress. If the strong emotions of life are well portrayed they are appreciated, if they are not, they are more quickly seen through by the gallery than by the other parts of the house, and the reason is that the gallery has less conventionalism, and therefore more quickly gets to the heart of things than those who are trammelled by conventionalism. The gallery sees real life in the nude.

NANCE O'NEIL.

Magda, the opening play of what one hopes will be an auspicious season, gives great opportunities for the best of acting. It is written by a master of his craft, and in spite of its being a translation, it loses none of its original fire, sarcasm and realism. The playwright in Magda has taken for his theme the impossibility of the artistic spirit and the conventional spirit living together. It is the old story of oil and water not mixing. Being a realist, Sudermann makes no effort to give a solution of the difficulty. He merely gives a picture of actual life, shows that these contrasts occur, shows that they can occur even in the same family, and then leaves you to draw your own conclusions. There were lessons, and deep lessons, to be learned from the lines, if any one cared to draw them.

The main interest of the play rests upon three characters. Magda (Miss Nance O'Neil), Colonel Schwartz (McKee Kankin), and Pastor Heffterding (Herbert Carr). In handling the character of Magda, the daughter who left her home, went into the world of Bohemia, erred and then won her way to fame and fortune by her talents, Miss O'Neil showed herself an emotional actress of the first rank. She does not act her character, she lives it on the stage before you. Talking over what Miss O'Neil's qualifications were with another old play goer, he suggested that she was modeled on the lines of Jeffreys Lewis and Fanny Davenport. It may be so, but she more strongly reminded me of Isabella Barmann and Madame Celeste.

Miss O'Neil has a fine presence and a beautifully modulated voice, which can come forth in rolling periods and die away in soft cooing notes. She is extremely graceful and her actions on the stage appear as unstudied as in real life; in this lies the true genius of the actress. Not a word that she says is lost upon the ears of the audience, and would that one could say that of all players. There are so many who gabble their words so that a very lynx could not hear, and from these the present company is not exempt.

With her beauty, her gracefulness, her true artistic instinct, which has been most admirably cultivated, Miss O'Neil has a great career before her. She is young, very young, but youth in an actress is ever a charm. But Miss O'Neil's genius does not depend upon youth, and she bids fair to rank with those actresses or singers who have defied time, like Ellen Terry, Sara Bernhardt and Adeline Patil.

McKee Kankin is an actor of the good old school. It is a pleasure to see him on the stage and to see how thoroughly he enters into his character. There are very few of these old, thorough-going actors left. You find them more in Germany and in the provincial towns of England and Scotland than you do in the States. The farce comedy and the song and dance rubbish like the Gaiety Girl, and the dozen other "girls" that followed it, have prevented actors from getting an opportunity to work on the old lines. As the Colonel Rankin portrayed the narrow minded, religious, honorable old soldier to the life. Passage after passage might be quoted but I doubt if any finer bit of acting could be shown than when he says to Connelton von Keller, the seducer of his daughter, "I do not know that you have any right to a seat in this house, but since you say that you have come hastily at my summons, you must be tired—be seated." There was the mixture of the indignant manhood and the studied politeness of the thorough

POLICE EVIDENCE IS MADE PERMANENT.

A Pretty Piece of Work in the Detection of Crime—Photography is Made to Play Its Part.

To catch the criminal is a ticklish business. If the evanescent evidence is not kept the criminal may escape. This is a fact well known to all police officers.

This afternoon Acting Marshal Hitchcock and Officer Doyle, accompanied by Attorney Robertson proceeded to Frank Davey's studio where the plates belonging to the bills that were alleged to be forged by Ed Aldrich. From the expert evidence given yesterday it was made plain to the police officials that the plates might fade out before the jury trial would come on. It was necessary therefore to have the plates treated by a proper photographer. The two police officials and the attorney for the defense therefore met together to have the evidence made permanent in their presence.

Had this precaution not been taken, at the jury trial it is possible that the supposedly incriminating plates would have simply proved of clear glass, with nothing upon them. It takes some judgment to run after criminals in these latter days. A Sherlock Holmes is what is required.

CRUISE OF THE VOLANTE

FROM FRISCO IN TWENTY-SIX DAYS.

Said to be on Its Way to Guam—Customs Officers Have Seen Strange Signals Lately.

The sloop Volante, 26 days from San Francisco, arrived in port this afternoon and created more interest than a big liner would. She is a trim little craft, 25 feet long with 9 foot beam. The captain and the crew and boat's true and the midshipmate are John Oliver and Alden Johnson.

Adventure, pure and simple, is the animating principle of their cruise, they say, and their cruise may extend to Guam, or even to Manila.

They left San Francisco October 16 and sighted Hawaii and Maui early Wednesday morning. Last night they were abreast of Molokai and came in this morning. At once the sloop was boarded by a customs officer and was searched but nothing out of the way was found.

The customs officers do not dissemble their suspicion that the Volante is an opium smuggler, though they do not claim to have any proof of it. For the last three or four nights signals have been seen behind Diamond Head but whether they were for the Volante or not is not known. The customs officers tried to investigate the signals but not having a launch they were obliged to do it by land and of course with little hope of success.

Oliver and Johnson are bright, intelligent men and look like they might enjoy just such an adventure as they say they are now on.

AFTER THE FLUKE.

Professor Koebele has Discovered an Enemy of the Pest.

Commissioner Clark has received from Professor Koebele a number of Texas shells containing myriad parasites which will prey upon the fluke. These small snails will be turned loose in time in mud and water where the fluke is worst. It is believed that they will thoroughly exterminate the great pest.

The professor also sent down parasites for the cut worm. A part of his mission abroad was to find something to kill the cut worm, and he believes he has succeeded.

Professor Koebele is now in Alameda, having returned from Washington. There he will receive the request of the bureau to return at once to Honolulu and may be expected in the next two or three weeks.
